

Marshall Hampton Reserve

All trails start on the western edge of the parking area, and leads visitors through the equestrian parking area to the main trail head. Once past the main trail head, the trail quickly allows visitors to escape the open pasture and enter a small oak hammock. The shade of the large trees provides great refuge for visitors as well as wildlife. The trail then shortly exits the oak hammock and under the protection of a couple of large oaks, visitors can view the pond. Just a short distance to the west is where the trail splits, giving visitors two trail options.

The trail starts at the base of the pond, breaking away from the Osprey Overlook Loop Trail and then meanders into the oak hammock where it loops through historic pine flatwoods, and an oak hammock. The trail is mostly shaded. Trails may be seasonally wet; look for the old footbridges which allow visitors to cross some of the wetter areas.
